Walker signs track bill

Racing on Sunday, 10c local tax OKd

by KURT BAER

Gov. Daniel Walker has approved a new state racing law that for the first time permits local communities with race tracks to pass a 10 cents per person admission tax.

The new law reduces the state admission tax, allows winter thoroughbred racing throughout the state and permits Sunday racing at tracks where people in the community approve the idea.

Walker announced his approval of the new horse racing law this week. But the Illinois Racing Board still has not announced the 1976 horse racing schedule.

The racing board has held up awarding 1976 racing dates until it receives assurances from the Illinois General Assembly that $2.1 million will be appropriated to operate the board for the year.

$1 million suit filed; Ms. Santa says image hurt

by BILL HILL

An attorney for Palatine's lady Santa, Jeanette Gscheidle, filed suit in Circuit Court on Christmas Eve against Robert Venti, owner of the Golden Dolphin Bath Boutique, 350 E. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights.

In the suit, which seeks $1 million in damages, Mrs. Gscheidle, 620 W. Colfax St., Palatine, charges Venti with publicly calling her "a disreputable person."

Mrs. Gscheidle recently received publicity for her performances as Santa Claus, including a Dec. 8 appearance on Tom Snyder's Tomorrow Show in New York.

Then, on Dec. 12, she pleaded guilty to charges of writing a check for $48.98 at Venti's store in October 1974, shortly after closing her bank

MRS. GSCHEIDLE also said she was scheduled to appear on the Tonight Show starring Johnny Carson this month; according to her attorney, Joel Chernoff of Palatine, she was told last week that her appear-

'Mom and Pop' markets keep old traditions alive

by JOE FRANZ

Bill's Dairy, Des Plaines, is a small, clean, simple and unpretentious store like many that flourished in this country before the age of supermarkets.

Every neighborhood had such a store - a place to shop, to meet and talk with neighbors, to pick up a newspaper. It was a rendezvous for small boys and their pals, a place to buy soda pop, ice cream and penny candy.

Bill's Dairy, 1523 E. Oakton St., is one of a dying breed. A scattering of stores like it still exist in certain areas, but no longer are businesses of this type as commonplace as they were 40, 50 or 60 years

THE STORE, typical of those commonly referred to as "mom and pop stores," has been owned and operated for the past eight years by Bill Greenberg and his mother, Julia, who lives in an apartment above the store. The Greenberg family operated a variety store in Chicago for 55 years before moving to Des Plaines.

Greenberg said he remembers when stores like his played an important role in society and were a part

"Stores like this are part of a culture that's lacking today," he said. "In my opinion it leaves children without ground to sink their roots into."

"A number of my customers have told me the store reminds them of the ones they went to when they were kids," he said. "There just aren't too many like it any more."

Greenberg said he believes the role of the small grocery store has drastically changed in recent

"PEOPLE DON'T DO their main shopping here," he said. "The majority come in here for one, two or three items. Many times for things they forget to get at the chain stores.'

The fastest-moving items in the store are bread, milk, cigarets and newspapers, he said.

Prices at the store are "in line" with the chain stores, Greenberg said, but he readily admits he cannot compete with the large stores because of his limited inventory.

Despite that drawback, the Greenberg's say business is good, adding they see many bright years ahead for their small store.

"We have a nice trade here," Mrs. Greenberg said. "It's a very convenient store and we try to accommodate and provide service with a smile.

FROM THE STANDPOINT of convenience, Bill's Dairy is typical of thousands of small stores that have recently been opened throughout the country by large corporations.

But Greenberg believes his store offers an atmosphere, flavor and friendliness that is missing in many stores. Those qualities, he said, probably are his store's greatest assets.

"I'll tell you what we offer our customers: A feeling that they're human beings," he said. "We have a lot of good people coming in here and we appreciate

Clues sought in coed's beating death

NORMAL, Ill. (UPI) - Police Friday checked alibis and talked with friends and acquaintances of Carol Rofstad, an "easy-going, well-liked" Illinois State University student from Elk Grove Village who died after she was apparently clubbed with a railroad tie.

POLICE RULED out robbery as a motive, saying the woman's purse and wallet were intact, lying next to her body when it was discovered at about noon Tuesday in front of the Delta Zeta sorority house where she lived.

A railroad tie with blood on it was found near the body and Sadler said it "would be logical" to assume it was the weapon used to kill her.

He said police traced Miss Rofstad's

Further west, heavy clouds spread over the Pacific Northwest, while lesser clouds stretch along the

"We believe 1975 was one of the most successful years in the department's history," Allphin said. "More tax dollars were brought into the General Revenue Fund and more services provided to citizens than in any other year.

"THE ILLINOIS lottery ranks first among the 13 state-run lotteries in the country. It is not only the most profitable in the nation but it is also the most economical. Only about 4.2 per cent of gross revenue went for operating costs in the first year."

Allphin said the IDR collected nearly $3.5 billion in taxes between January and Nov. 1 this year, or $300 million more than in the corresponding 1974 period.

Allphin attributed the improvement to stricter enforcement of tax laws, improved tax-processing techniques and increased voluntary compliance with tax laws by taxpayers.

The department used newly-passed legislation in its program to crack down on delinquent sales taxpayers. The program also insured that employers remit all income taxes withheld from employees' paychecks.

ALLPHIN PREDICTED the program would reduce the number of tax

Police moved the device from the shopping center to the police department's outdoor firing range where an explosives unit detonated it.

Corbitt said bomb experts believed it "could have wiped out a city block."

The FBI was called in to investigate, but Corbitt said police had no idea of what precipitated the incident.

A massive audit program initiated in 1975 to see that airline food caterers were paying all Illinois taxes due resulted in payment to the state of nearly $2 million, the largest single delinquency ever produced by an Illinois revenue audit, Allphin said.

The department authorized a record $50 million in cash grants to senior and disabled residents under the state's Circuit Breaker Law, and the number of tax relief grants through Dec. 23 exceeded by more than 70 per cent the 104,969 grants issued in 1974. The 1975 grants totalled $29.5 million, nearly $13 million more than in 1974.

The Additional Tax Relief program, a supplement to the Circuit Breaker Law, was responsible for an additional $21 million in awards to provide relief of other taxes paid by senior and disabled residents. Allphin said 266,831 grants were issued under the relief program by Dec. 23.

Berwyn man to seek county board seat

Berwyn attorney Roy C. Pechous said Friday he intends to seek the sixth suburban seat on the Cook County Board, recently made vacant by Republican Comr. Floyd Fulle's resignation.

Pechous, 39, an independent Republican, was defeated by Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., in the 6th District congressional race in 1974, and by Berwyn Mayor Emil Vacin in the 1973 Berwyn mayoralty.

In 1974, Gov. Daniel Walker appointed Pechous to his present position, as the Republican member of the Illinois Civil Service Commission.

He also was a delegate to the 1970 Illinois Constitutional convention.

Plan for a $75,000 nest egg, worth starting before Dec. 31

By Donald F. Morton, President Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

How would you like to have a retirement nest egg of $75,000, built up in just 20 years? How would you like to have $45,000 of this amount awarded to you as earned interest? And how would you like to defer income tax over the 20-year period on the entire $75,000?

These are possibilities available to you when you take advantage of the Individual Retirement Account (IRA) authorized by Congress in the Pension Reform Act. They are yours if you are an employee not covered this year by any other pension or profit-sharing plan.

The IRA program allows qualified individuals to deduct up to $1,500 a year from their gross income, invest it in a savings program like ours, and let it grow untaxed until retirement.

The buildup of $45,000 in earned interest is possible when you set up your IRA in a certificate of deposit currently paying 734 percent interest. Assuming comparable return over the 20-year period and the present ceiling of $1,500 per year, you will have a gratifying $75,000 extra to make retirement years serves the attention of every more satisfying. There is the person who lacks other curprobablility that the $1,500 rent pension or profit-sharing limit will be raised in future programs. You will be wise to vears: Secretary of the Treasury William Simon has al- December 31 deadline. ready proposed that it be lifted to $2,000, and Congress may be acting on his proposal within the next few months.

The fact that the money you put into the IRA is currently exempt from taxation, being deductible from annual gross income, helps to increase present disposable income. Assuming a 20% to 30% tax bracket, you would be saving $300 to $450 per year in income tax on $1,500. Since taxes on earnings from the IRA are deferred, this also means you escape the $9,000 to $13,500 you would be taxed over the 20 years on the interest of $45,000 earned in the IRA program (based on present interest levels).

All you have to do to start your IRA plan is to sign Treasury Form 5305. Withdrawals may begin no earlier than age 591/2 (unless you are disabled) and no later than 701/2. Money taken out prematurely is subject to a 10 percent penalty. It is treated as taxable income in the year taken; the advantage is that the taxation will undoubtedly be much lower than it is in paycheck years.

The IRA is a plan that deget started in 1975 before the

The TU-144, sometimes nicknamed the "Konkordski" by westerners, is remarkably similar to the Concorde. Both have adjustable noses, delta wings and 4,000-mile ranges.

The 120-passenger Tupolev has beaten the 144-passenger Concorde most of the way along the development route. The Soviet Union had announced The Tupolev flew a month before its rival, but there have been no reported Concorde crashes.

Recent tests indicate Lake Michigan chubs and yellow perch are essentially free of contamination from PCBs, a group of chemical compounds believed to cause cancer, the Illinois Dept. of Conservation reported. PCBs, or polychlorinated biphenyls, are used by industry because they resist decomposition and do not conduct electricity.

'We're trying to tell her she is not being deserted'

by NORMAN D. SANDLER

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) - It was a letter that aroused the interest of a farmer from northeast Iowa in the plight of a 30-year-old American woman serving what began as a wait on death row for smuggling hashish into Turkey.

His object: to bring her some hope, show some interest, convince her that she is not alone and forgotten.

The story began more than three years ago when three young American women traveling through Europe were stopped by Turkish police. Authorities searched their camper and found hashish stashed away in its

One of the women was Kathy Zenz, 30, of Lancaster, Wis. She wrote a letter describing her plight and reiterating her innocence recently. It was reprinted by several newspapers, and one of those who was moved by the letter was E. V. Willenborg of Dyersville.

Willenborg began to organize a movement of support and encouragement for Kathy Zenz, and he has met with groups throughout the Dubuque and Delaware County areas to encourage residents to send letters, reading material, food and other materials to Miss Zenz, to let her know that while she may be imprisoned in a foreign country, she has not been forgotten.

"What we are trying to do," Willenborg said in a telephone interview, "is to show a little concern, send her some letters and show her that she is not being abandoned over there. There is nothing more that can be done for her through political channels, so we have taken it upon ourselves to keep her spirits up while she's over there."

His ties with Miss Zenz are not entirely coincidental. Willenborg's daughter and Miss Zenz attended Mercy Medical Center in Dubuque together "about eight or nine years ago." However, it was the letter, reprinted last month in the Dubuque Telegraph-Herald, that convinced him she needed encouragement.

"Her letter dealt with finding joy even though she was under very difficult conditions," he said. "It struck me as being something wonderful that she could think Willenborg's main objective, however, is to insure Kathy Zenz is not fogotten.

"She wrote that the printed word — that letters were the sustaining thing for her. But of course we're asking people here to remember her in their prayers and help keep her spirits up. Old tin containers worth keeping

Driving down a country road early last fall I spotted two ladies setting up some folding tables on the front lawn and stringing a clothesline from one tree to another. A small hand-lettered sign near the driveway proclaimed "Rummage." My car turned in (my kids have always claimed our cars are automatically drawn in by such signs) and I was lucky enough to be the first customer.

Although most of the merchandise was strictly rummage, used clothes and the like, among it I found a nice old picture frame, a 1920's "early plastic" molded bracelet of the sort my daughter collects when she can get them away from me, and best of all, an old Sears Roebuck tea tin. The price was right for each item -10 cents.

I AM ALWAYS on the lookout for old tin store containers for my son the lawyer who has quite a nice collection, most of which have been scrounged by me, along with some really nice ones bought by his doting mother-in-law.

Advertising tin containers are very big in the collecting field and prices run from my dime bargains to as high as $500, and a very special large-sized bulk store tin might even be tagged much

Any lithographed tin, especially with a picture, is worth picking up today. The very first tin containers were painted or stenciled by hand, until lithographing was invented in about 1850. Many tins have paper labels, but it's hard to find one of those in good condition. Designs printed directly upon the tin hold up better, unless they are very rusty.

LOOK FOR TINS that feature the Shaker (religious sect) labels. These good people "put up" on the commercial market all sorts of vegetables, jellies, flower seeds, etc., and the colorful pictures show scenes from their life and times.

Collecting

with Grace Carolyn

Dated labels are best, of course, for anything that can be pinpointed to a definite year is good for collections. A tin made before 1875 is rare. Most are from the 1890-1910 era, and some from even later are good to collect, especially if colorful or with interesting advertising.

My son has one little tin pill box which imparts the somewhat startling information that the contents are good for both man and beasts, for any ailment known to either. He has another printed "Old Chicken Scratch" and that tin still contains residue of a powder presumably used for delousing poultry.

TOBACCO TINS are favored among collectors, for there were so many types made. Even later Lucky Strike tin cigarette boxes are bought and sold. Do you remember when such boxes were white, while "Lucky Strike Green went to War?" That was the Biggie - W.W. II.

The Roly Poly was made about 1900, a special tobacco container that is now as hard to find as it is to tip over. These lithographed colored tins were fat little humanized figures which could not be tipped over, being weighted on the bottoms, and they bore visages of clowns, policemen and several other characters. Many of them originally held Mayo cut plug tobacco. These are collected by both "tin people" and "toy people."

The picture (courtesy Newspaper Enterprise Association) shows a wallet-sized business card replica which is lithographed on heavy gauge metal, made by American Can Co., probably as an exposition commemorative.

Whatever the collectible, there is usually an association. For tin collectors, there is the Tin Container Collectors Association TCCA) and they put out a newsletter, called "Tintype." Cute!

When Dr. Tucker quit, babies lost an ally

by Ira Berkow

Shortly after her 78th birthday, Dr. Beatrice E. Tucker reluctantly came out of quasi-retirement to deliver a baby at the mother's home. It was a rather easy affair in a clean apartment, and Dr. Tucker, an obstetrician, did not have to climb through an attic window, or crawl onto a dirt floor, or deliver the baby among orange crates in a grocery store, or in an alley.

Nor were there any riot-squad National Guardsmen with bayonets protecting the doors, nor was the newborn baby a dope addict and, as Dr. Tucker walked to the apartment building, no friendly strangers warned her, "Don't be comin' 'round here, Miss, it's dangerous — you can be

All that and more have occurred in the 41 years, from 1932 to 1973, that Dr. Tucker was the medical director for the Chicago Maternity Center, located in a West Side ghetto.

IN THE TIME there, she had a hand in over 100,000 home delivery births, either literally or as a supervisor. It was the only home delivery service in the United States staffed by physicians. She retired from the Center in 1973, and not long after the Center itself closed down its home delivery service for lack of funds and, conceivably, lack of inspiration.

Inspiration is what Dr. Tucker provided a lot of. She became the director at the depths of the Depression, when the old three-story, graystone building was transformed into a maternity center. She lived in the basement for a year organizing the operations, along with the famous obstetrician, Dr. Joseph DeLee. The neighborhood was dirty and dangerous. Stray gunshots cracked through the windows, Dr. Tucker ducked and went

AFTER LEAVING the Maternity Center she continued doing pre-natal care for the Chicago Board of Health, and on rare occasions delivering a baby at home.

Then last year she said she was finished completely. She said she was "slipping," that cataracts were impairing her vision and that she no longer had the energy to properly sew the womb after the birth.

But when another doctor friend took ill and asked her to handle a home delivery birth for her, she consented.

"Most doctors have never seen a baby born at home, and they don't know how to do it," said Dr. Tucker. "And most hospitals won't deliver a case unless it has been pre-registered by at least the seventh month . . . We took any case, and many of them were police calls. That's where a lot of thrills came in."

However, she emphasizes, "I had a sounding voice. She wore under her lot of help with me.'

In the book, "The Fight For Life," written by Paul de Kruif in 1933, he referred to Dr. Tucker as "a woman of the future." Now, Dr. Tucker describes herself as "the last rose on

Tapestries meld past, present

The art of Alexander Calder expressed by Aubusson weavers is a melding of past and present to create a lively, colorful and completely delightful interpretation of America's Bicentennial celebra-

Calder, now in his 70s, is one of the American greats with a reputation for making things that are fun to look at. Whether they are mobiles, stabiles, tapestries or paintings they embody the American spirit - active, inventive, sometimes humorous, sometimes irreverent.

Three years ago he was commissioned by Clement M. Brown Jr., an American living in Paris, to do something for the Bicentennial. They decided upon a set of six tapestries which would be woven by Pinton Freres, highly respected atelier of Aubusson, France.

AUBUSSON IS a name renowned for the art of tapestries and not without reason. It is believed that this region of medieval hamlets has been weaving tapestry continuously for 700 years and that the art perhaps dates as far back as 732 A.D.

At the start Calder made about 50 designs in gouache. From these, six were selected and "cartoons" were made as patterns for the weavers. Using three dye pots of the primary colors, red, yellow and blue, the workers precisely match the artist's colors. They must consider the effect of "fade," texture and shadow to achieve the exact shade or hue of the master plan.

It is such an exacting art that a weaver will complete only a square yard of tapestry in a

The first public showing of these tapestries was at the Republican Governor's Conference in Wichita, Kan. in November. Two sets of the tapestries were hung between standing panels so that both the front and the back could be studied by viewers.

SONDA GOLDMAN, director of Gallery G. Wichita, is in charge of the showing and has exclusive marketing rights for the 200 sets which will be made in honor of America's 200th birthday. At the close of the Wichita showing, the tapestries began a tour throughout the United States to Houston, Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, New York and Washington, D.C.

As for the marketing, Mrs. Goldman explained, "In the beginning we thought they would sell as sets, but individuals have become so excited about them that they will be offered as sets or individually. They are a very adequate size (40x60 inches) for hanging in a home, a business or a museum."

SONDRA AND her husband Lou and project director Jo Ann Harned are also concerned about a spread for the tapestries. They would like to see a fairly even distribution of the tapestries throughout the country so that all Americans will be able to enjoy them.

Fifty sets have been set aside for marketing abroad and each set will be individually signed and numbered. The model set will be donated to the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia — the birthplace of both our country and Calder.

What causes Parkinson's?

Can you tell me something about Parkinson's disease? My mother, age 65, has been diagnosed as being in the early stages of this disease. She has a slight tremor in her leg and has gotten herself into a complete panic and depression over this. She is afraid to go out of the house alone and worries constantly that she'll become a burden for the family.

My mother has always been in excellent health and always looked much younger than her years. Now suddenly she is assuming the role of a very old woman. Is it possible that this disease could become acute this quickly.

Parkinson's disease is caused by abnormal functions within the brain. Remember the brain is a giant switchboard for all our functions, from thought to movement.

The changes in the brain commonly cause tremor, of either the hand or foot or even the head. The characteristic tremor is of the hand, with a peculiar movement of the fingers known as "pill rolling." The muscles become rigid and involvement of some of these leads to the bent over posture that is so troublesome to some patients. The face may take on a mask-like expression as the facial muscles become rigid and eye blinking disappears.

It is sometimes hard to diagnose, particularly when only one feature is noted, and it is true that the tremor can be in the leg. Tremors can be caused by many things other than Parkinson's disease, including so-called senile tremor that is not associated with any muscle rigidity or muscle weakness.

PARKINSON'S disease and its tremor are not caused by changes in the arteries to the brain with age. Rather most cases of Parkinson's disease have no identifiable cause or in other instances are caused by infectious diseases that occurred years earlier, or as a complication to the use of various drugs for medicinal purposes.

Most cases are first evident between age 50 and 65 and the disease progresses slowly. A case where the patient becomes disabled within five years is considered unusual. Most require 1 to 20 years to become disabled after the onset of the disease is first noticed. So, I am very skeptical that your mother is suddenly old or that her disease itself has really incapacitated her this soon, assuming that the diagnosis is correct.

The treatment of Parkinson's disease is mostly symptomatic or supportive. The goal is to relieve muscle spasm and maintain mobility. Heat and massage help to relieve painful muscle spasms or cramps.

SOME PATIENTS get dramatic relief from L-Dopa, but despite the popular reporting of its miracles, it is not indicated except in selected cases. In fact, it is dangerous in patients with heart disease, irregularities of the heart or any evidence of a disorder of circulation to the brain, as may be seen in a "little stroke."

Surgery is also helpful in some selected patients who do not respond well to medical management and are severely limited.

Putting all of this together, if your mother does have Parkinson's disease, remember that does not mean she will have any impairment of her mental abilities, and she should be able to function normally for a number of years. At that point if she needs it there are medicines that may be very useful for her.

CHRISTMAS CARD DIORAMA

After you've enjoyed your Christmas cards, turn them into a three-dimensional winter scene. Set a shoebox on one of its long sides. Glue a piece of light blue or gray paper to cover the inside of the back of the box. This will be your backdrop.

Cut trees, houses, churches and other bits of scenery from old cards. Glue them to the backdrop. Cover the bottom of the box with cotton "snow."

Cut children, snowmen and other figures from the cards, leaving a tab on the bottom of each. Bend the tab back and glue it to the "ground" to make the figures stand. Sprinkle a little glitter or soapflakes on the cotton to make it look like freshly-fallen snow.

If you like, finish your diorama by taping a piece of clear plastic wrap over the front of the box.

Dear Dorothy: I ignored my smart wife's warnings and charged on to buy a knockout of a leather covered table for the study. Just as she said, it's come up with a white ring on it. I've asked for a little help and she said, tartly, to write you. Okay, Mrs. (or Ms. Ritz, tell me what to do. - H. G. Laycock

Send it straight to a professional refinisher. Leather is the trickiest of propositions. All kinds of things enter into it — age, finish, porosity, to name only a few. We used to have a leather coffee table and it finally got to be the place for my experiments. I got some white ring stains out by barely dampening a cloth with rubbing alcohol, rubbing the stains quickly, then vigorously rubbing the business dry with another cloth. Then came shoe polish the same color as the leather, wiping this off and rewaxing. But this isn't for a new table. It will cost you — but you asked for it.

Dear Dorothy: When I want to make sure my bottom pie crust won't get soggy, I add a quarter teaspoon of sugar to a slightly beaten egg white, brush the pie bottom, let dry and bake as usual. - Milly Welsh . * * *

Dear Dorothy: Maybe your readers haven't heard this one. Some brown rusty water splattered from my steam iron over a dress. I put the stained part into some clear water, let it soak for about 15 minutes, then rubbed it lightly. It came off. — Glenda Pos-

Dear Dorothy: Discovered the joys of jam-making this past summer but am having difficulty with the latest jar I've opened — removing the paraffin that seals the jar. Most of the time I've poked at these seals with a knife until they've broken up and then have been fished out of the jars. than the opening and so must be broken to be removed. What am I doing wrong? — Adele Bagnall

The recipes for using paraffin call for filling the jar to within one-half inch of the top (which would be above the neck) and covering with a thin layer of paraffin. The smartest trick I know about is to put a piece of strong string — a piece as wide as the neck of the jar plus an inch - across the filled jar with both ends pointed up; then pour on the paraffin. This way when the jar is ready for use, you pull up the ends of the string and out comes the paraffin - unbroken and reusable.

Skinner shows needed drive

Since his appointment last summer, U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner has filled the role of the Chicago area's top crime and corruption prosecutor impres-

Skinner inherited the federal prosecutor's post from former U.S. Atty. James Thompson when convictions of well-known politicians were occurring regularly and when the reputation of the office was at an all-time high.

ban officials, the conviction of former County Comr. Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines, an exhaustive probe of baggage thefts at O'Hare Airport and a crackdown of more than 120 drug peddler show that Skinner has followed Thompson's example.

When Skinner was named head of Thompson's Special Investigations Division (SID) in 1971, he talked of "cleaning up" Chicago. Convictions of former Gov. Otto Kerner, former County Clerk Edward Barrett, corrupt Chicago police officers and other state, county and local officials followed.

Creation of the SID was an imaginative step forward in the battle against crime. Since Skinner, 37, became Thompson's top assistant in December 1974, the use of new prosecution and investigative techniques in the U.S. attorney's office has not stopped.

Skinner left a lucrative position as a computer salesman to become a federal prosecutor in 1968 after completing law school by attending night classes. He built a reputation as an "investigative lawver" who obtained results and was named to succeed Thompson last fall.

Despite the departure of Thompson — a "white knight" who magnetically attracted Recent indictments of subur- bright, young lawyers - Skinner has maintained the aggressive pace of investigations and prosecution that is widely recognized in the legal field. The public has benefited from the efforts of Skinner and his staff, and the Chicago area may, as a result, become a better place to live.

Somehow (gad) she made it through the season of mirth

by DOROTHY MEYER I don't believe it.

Four days ago I was running around crying, "I'll never make it, I'll never make it" - and here I am, alive and well and living in post-Christmas shock

Because I made it.

Christmas sleep, of course.

And not without courting rickets because instead of cooking I was shopping, knitting and addressing Christmas cards way behind schedule. This was due to the fact that somebody stole November when I wasn't looking. But I made it. Sort of.

SOME PEOPLE on my card list are just now getting my greetings and the last half dozen can quit waiting.

My daughters-in-law now have hand-knit sweaters in different stages of completion, neither of them 100 per cent. Marilyn got a robe that fits me

My sons who belatedly realized they wanted bedroom slippers if they couldn't get the $200 items on their wish lists, got shoe boxes stuffed with dollar bills but also lots of newspaper so they can buy their own blasted slippers. By Dec. 22 when they turned reasonable there weren't any slippers left in the stores except blue corduroy grandpa types with plaid flannel lining. Either every Size 9 in the county got black leather slippers with a hard sole this year or there's a terrible shortage of grandpas in the area. And the cat didn't get any catnip but my grandson got the cat — right between the ears with a Tonka truck. Even so, Christmas Eve was happy. NOBODY WAS stuck with a pet rock, for instance.

I read about pet rocks around the Not without considerable loss of pre- time that I realized I'd never get those sweaters done in time, and I thought, "At last! An answer to that age-old question, 'How silly can you get?" Even when I got panicky about what I was going to get anybody besides a couple of underdone sweaters, I didn't consider buying my children pet rocks.

However, I temporarily considered mood rings - also known as Passion Rings, Sensuous Stones or Sensitivity Jewels, depending upon how much they cost. Trouble was, every time I was tempted to buy one, I was also tempted to try it on and it always immediately turned deep blue. And you know what THAT means.

Reaction to the rings' reactions ranged from the clerks rolling on the floor in helpless hysteria to the stern young man who accused me of "doing something funny" to his stupid rings, like maybe I also doped race horses in my off season.

ALL IN ALL, it's been a pretty frantic month, but now I can relax. Until New Year's Eve. I wonder if I'll be continued. make it?

Happy New Year.

Without missing a beat!

Proud of Towne Criers unit

As a resident of Arlington Heights many compliments for the manner in and reader of The Herald, never was I prouder to be a resident than on Sunday, Dec. 14. When attending the Montclare Elmwood Park Lions Club Christmas party, we were entertained by the Towne Criers choral group from Forest View High School, Arlington Heights Dist. 214.

With all the bad things being publicized in the papers, why not publicize good things also. The group of young ladies and gentlemen traveled about 20 miles in a rainstorm to put on the greatest show I have witnessed in many years.

These young people are devoted to making others happy, and deserve which they conducted themselves and entertained our group.

EVERYONE present knew then that our young generation is for the most part basically good and if we can encourage these good people to continue along these lines, our country will be in good hands.

My hat goes off to this group and may I speak for all that were present that "you are just great!" Keep up the good work.

61 Benton house recognition need seen by reader

Friday, Dec. 5, you ran a front page article, including some pictures, of some of Palatine's oldest houses. A number of commuters on the train to Chicago that morning wondered why no one has given any recognition to the house at 61 N. Benton, where the late Charles Klopp, an architect, lived. It is stately, well maintained and certainly one of the most beautiful as well as one of the oldest houses in Palatine.

I have seen an article published by Paddock in 1939 which featured a story with accompanying pictures, of the house at 103 N. Benton. Mr. Klopp had drawn up the architectural plans for the renovation.

Perhaps you would pass this information on to the Palatine Historical Society Committee members.

Holiday Herald? Bah! Humbug!!!

I don't know whose brainstorm it was to have a Herald delivery on Christmas and New Year's day but whoever was responsible should get a medal for stupidity - for how many families will be interested in reading neighborhood paper Christmas morning. Does the inconvenience to your staff, delivery persons, etc., warrant a delivery, or is Paddock Publications only concerned with making a few extra bucks?

The united effort of the Heart Association of North Cook County, the Arlington Heights Nurses Club under the direction of Karen Acers and Althea Stadler and Motorola employes launched the campaign to reach everyone in the facility.

During the week, about 80 nurses working in two shifts each day, screened over 3,000 employes. All had been urged to have their blood pressures read through a promotion using the Heart Association's theme, "Do a Death-Defying Act - Have Your Blood Pressure Read."

THE NUMBER of individuals screened represented a "first" for the Communications Group of Motorola, and according to Karen Acers, a "first" for the Arlington Heights Nurses Club. The club has never screened as many individuals under one roof as it did during this cam-

Editorial writer 'loony'

Your resident loony has apparently been at the editorial typewriter again. I refer to your editorial of Dec. 19 that is highly critical of Congressman Crane for his philosophical opposition to revenue sharing. The local politicians, such as Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert, certainly are all in favor of revenue sharing for good reason; they get the money without being held responsible for the federal tax that produces the money.

I make no claim to being a financial wizard, but I do have some common sense about money, that neither your editorial writer nor the federal government has. This common sense tells ey. me two very basic things about mon-

1. You cannot forever increase, percentagewise, deficit budgets.

2. The greater the number of people or departments that administer a given amount of money, the smaller there is remaining to be spent

THE EVER increasing percentage of our wages and income that goes to the all knowing and benevolent "big brother" in Washington, results in an ever decreasing amount of control we have over our local affairs.

The politicians in Washington are able to continue on their path of fiscal insanity for two simple reasons, public apathy at election time, and they have the presses that print the mon-

Your editorial in Friday's Herald (Dec. 19) was most unfair to our congressman. Phil Crane has been one of the minority in congress fighting to reduce federal spending. He should have your support - not your

Our Northwest community has rightly produced many critics of the big spenders in Washington and New York City. Yet, here we have the Mayor of Mount Prospect, et.al., with their hands out. What is next? Food stamps to pay city employes?

THE "DOLE" from Washington is tempting, but it is much like the tar baby of Uncle Remus. Once you touch it, you're stuck.

It's time to listen to the philosophy of Phil Crane. Then someday, taxes can be left at home where they belong. Funds channeled through Washington tend to diminish along the way to the end project - there are too many sticky fingers along the way. Revenue sharing cannot be as efficient as home control.

Evangelical feminists decry 'absolutism'

While supporters of the ordination of women to the Roman Catholic priesthood were gathering in Detroit over Thanksgiving weekend to map a strategy for pursuing their cause, a smaller but no less militant group of feminists came together in Washing-

What was surprising about the lesspublicized Washington meeting was the fact that all of those present were evangelicals - conservative Protestants, usually considered more passive and more prone to the submissive preachments of Marabel Morgan's "The Total Woman."

The conference, aimed to develop a "biblical feminism," was called by the Evangelical Women's Caucus and demonstrated a deep undercurrent of discontent with the tradition of male leadership in both church and home.

HIGHLIGHTING THE conference. which brought participants from 36 states, was the keynote address by Prof. Virginia Ramey Mollenkott, professor of English at William Paterson

Mollenkott argued that "when properly understood, the Bible supports the central tenets of feminism" and took on the more traditionalist evangeicals who "triumphantly cite New Testament instructions about the submission of first century wives and church women as proof that it is forever the will of God for women to remain subordinate."

The basic strategy that Mollenkott argues is that the culture of the Bible must be "de-absolutized" — a reading

World of religion

by David E. Anderson

some Biblical literalists might have trouble with.

"Because patriarchy is the cultural backdrop of the Scriptures," she argued, "it is absolutely basic to any feminist reading of the Bible that one cannot absolutize the culture in which the Bible was written."

"WE CANNOT ASSUME," she told the 360 women at the conference, "that because the Bible was written against the backdrop of a patriarchal social structure, patriarchy is the will of God for all people in all times and in all places."

Molenkott then raised two examples of culture-influenced practices that permeate the biblical material that have been repudiated, even by evangelicals, in contemporary times: The notion of the divine right of kings, including absolute monarchy, and the issue of slavery. Biblical feminists, then, she said, are asking that in the male-female relationship, as in the areas of slavery and the monarchy, "we be consistent about de-absolutizing the Biblical culture." (United Press International)

BROTHER JUNIPER

Ask Andy

Hyena cleans up nature's garbage

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Tammy Campion, 15, of Irene, S.D., for her question:

HOW DID THE LAUGHING HYENA GET HIS NAME?

The hyena would come last in any beauty contest. He feeds on leftovers and most folk regard him as a sneaky coward. His voice, from which he gets his name, is a ghastly imitation of a villain's laugh. Almost nobody has anything nice to say about him. Yet without him, the plains of Africa would be littered with rotting carcasses.

The brown hyena, the striped hyena and the spotted hyena are meat-eating scavengers of Africa - and the striped species ranges through the Middle East into India. All are powerful bone crushers and no other mammal can match their mighty jaws. Some people mistake them for wild dogs, though they are not related. The hyenas are classified in their own small family, Hyaenidae.

The most famous of the three cousins is the spotted hyena, alias the the east African plains, where he works through the night to dispose of the garbage left by lions and other hungry hunters. Unlike his two cousins, he sometimes goes hunting with a pack of relatives and catches a meal of fresh meat for himself.

His shabby coat is yellowish-gray spotted with brown. He has a hunched appearance with heavy shoulders sloping down to slender hind quarters. His front legs are quite a bit longer than his hind legs and he looks rather clumsy, even when running at top

Certainly the spotted hyena is no beauty - and his voice is even less attractive than his looks. When prowling or hunting, he utters a low growl that sounds for all the world like a sneaky giggle. This would be enough to earn the name laughing hyena. But there is more.

When excited, the hyena sounds off with a long ghastly howl that could scare the witches on Halloween night. He begins with a low growl and rises to a piercing shriek. When he finds a leftover carcass, he has another horterical crackle, just what one expects from a wicked villain.

We tend to think of vultures, hyenas and other scavengers as repulsive creatures. But the world would be a messy place without them, for they dispose of nature's garbage. The lion is a sloppy eater, leaving most of his meaty meal to rot on the ground. Then along comes the hyena, who devours the leftovers and gleefully chomps up the bones.

Andy sends a seven-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Tami Buckwalter, 9, of Salt Lake City, Utah, for her question:

WHAT ARE KILLER BEES?

People keep spreading these scary stories around and around. The socalled killer bees are supposed to arrive and sting us all to death. Or so they say. But this is not true. Right now those bees are down in South America. They are bad-tempered fellows and sometimes lots of them have a tantrum and gang up to sting somebody. True, they are spreading and in 10 years or so their great-great-great grandchildren may reach North America. But the whole story has a couple of happy miracles.

The so-called killer bees make a lot more honey than our ordinary bees. This is miracle No. 1. They also mix and mate with our ordinary bees. Their children produce lots of honey like their killer bee ancestors. But they do not inherit those bad tempers. This is miracle No. 2. In a few years, we can expect all the grandchildren to behave themselves and also to give us lots of extra honey.

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) - Charles Collingwood sums up 1975 by quoting an ancient Chinese curse: "May you be doomed to live in interesting years."

With that anchorman Collingwood leads off a crew of CBS reporters in a special, "1975: A Television Album," scheduled to be aired Sunday from 5-6

As must happen, the show also dabbles in crystal ball gazing about what we might expect in 1976, but that is kept to a minimum and heavily larded with cliches. Collingwood and crew try to be as comprehensive as possible within the hour format, ranging from the kidnaping of the oil cartel ministers to Catfish Hunter's contract with the Yankees, from the windup pf Watergate to the inching up of the economy, from the fall of South Vietnam, to the duck the spotlight for a while.

Bicentennial year, but also a presidential election year, that subject was bound to get considerable time. Ford, Nelson Rockefeller and Ronald Reagan were the Republicans of note. Morton Dean, talking about the Democrats, says there are 11 candidates: "Among the eleven; one congressman, four senators, and a former senator, two governors and two former governors, and a man who ran for vice president in 1972 — a man with a Kennedy connection.

Collingwood notes, among other things, that 1975 was International Women's Year. From Collingwood's report, maybe women might prefer to

ON THE POSITIVE side, there was Margaret Thatcher becoming leader of Britain's Conservative party. But then Collingwood talks about India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi having "scuttled most of her country's burgeoning democratic tradition in order to remain in power," the troubles of Argentina's President Isabel Peron, and the two women who tried to assassinate Ford.

The difficulty with this hour-long "Album" is that it repeats the headlines of the year, without giving them new perspective or in-depth coverage. And to hear Charles Collingwood tell it, 1975 may have been an interesting year but it certainly lacked a sense of

Four area teams gain tourney triumphs

Allsmiller collects 42 in Buffalo Grove's win

A Herald Staff Report

A brief holiday break failed to slow down four area basketball teams, but six others had nothing to shout about Friday evening in a busy schedule of tournament activity.

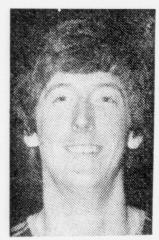

Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg, Maine West and Hersey emerged as the only clubs with victories on this final Friday in December. Dropping decisions were St. Viator, Rolling Meadows, Conant, Hoffman Estates, Wheeling, and

The big news came from the Bison of Buffalo Grove who featured a record-breaking performance in a romp past Peotone. Here's the way the action developed Friday:

BRIAN BURNS BLUE DEVILS

It was strictly no contest after the opening period as Buffalo Grove and Brian Allsmiller ripped Peotone, 78-32, in the Rich South Tournament.

Allsmiller smashed school and tournament scoring records with 42 points, hitting 20 of 30 shots from the floor, in the one-sided triumph. He nipped his own school mark by one and the tourney standard by three points. The All-State candidate had 22 at halftime.

Buffalo Grove, now 9-1 over-all, moved off to a slow start, holding only a 15-10 lead after one stanza, but Paul Grady's outfit stormed to a 38-18 halftime advantage. It was 58-26 after three periods.

The Bison hit 51 per cent from the floor and made more baskets again than the opposition took shots. Defensively, the Mid-Suburban entry forced numerous turnovers in dominating the Blue Devils.

Mike Marshall chipped in with 14 points in a strong performance coming off the bench.

The Bison return to the Righ South floor Monday morning at 9:30 against Carl Sandburg. "That's a very important game for us in many ways," said Grady. "Sandburg has a good club to begin with, and it's never easy to play in the morning. We'll have our hands

SAXONS IN TITLE GAME

Schaumburg overcame a three-point deficit at halftime by employing a full-court press that bothered stubborn Roosevelt into 53-33 submission in the semi-finals of the Luther North Holiday Tournament Friday night.

"It was a tough defensive game during that first half," Schaumburg head coach Joe Breault testified, "but the game-breaker was our press in the second half that forced 18 turn-

With Jon McIlraith pouring through 21 points and soph John Chmiel adding 16, the Saxons went up by three after the third quarter before blowing Roosevelt out in the final stanza with a 22-8 scoring blitz.

Schaumburg completely shut Roosevelt off inside with a combination man-to-man and zone defense in the second half and limited the Rough Riders to just 14 points.

Schaumburg will vie for the championship at 9:00 tonight, attempting to add a trophy to its splendid 10-1 over-

KNUTTEL SPARKS HERSEY

Mark Knuttel of Hersey made his first appearance of the season and scored 15 points to lead the Huskies to a 66-43 victory over Grant in the opening round of the 16-team York holiday basketball tourney Friday.

The Huskies, now 7-2, put four players in double figures, but it was 5-foot-10 senior guard Knuttel who sparked an early surge that pushed Hersey to Knuttel, just recovered from a broken leg, stole the ball and went in alone for a layup, then swished a pair of 20-footers to get the Huskies off on the right foot.

Hersey stormed into the tourney's second round - the Huskies play again tonight at 9:00 - by relying heavily on its height advantage and an edge in over-all quickness. Tom Burzak and Jay McDermott each picked off 11 rebounds, mostly in the second half when the Huskies increased their four-point halftime lead to a 15-point bulge in six minutes.

Three baskets each by Burzak and Clyde Glass in the third quarter opened up a 40-25 Hersey lead, and the Huskie defense helped to pad the margin. A tight man-to-man setup forced numerous Grant turnovers and held the Bulldogs to just six third-pe-

If Los Angeles Rams Coach Chuck Knox looks a little worried Saturday, there's a reason.

James Harris, his No. 1 quarterback, has a sore shoulder and is having problems throwing the football. Harris, who took over as the Rams' quarterback last year and has produced back-to-back NFC West titles, sat out last Saturday night's season finale against Pittsburgh and only began throwing again Thursday. Knox is still undecided whether Harris will start today's first round playoff against the St. Louis Cardinals. He'll make a decision on whether to go with Harris or backup Ron Jaworski just before gametime.

Jaworski's first pro start was against the World Champion Steelers last week and the result was a 10-3 victory. The second-year man from Youngstown State ran five yards for the winning score late in the game.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, are in good physical shape. Star running back Terry Metcalf was nursing some sore spots but he'll be ready for his razzle dazzle running.

Metcalf suffered a bruised hip in a victory over Dallas, sat out a win at Chicago and played little more than one half as St. Louis defeated Detroit. The 5-foot-9 speedster, who set an NFL record for total offensive yardage production this season, also has a sprained toe and a sore ankle.

"It hurts but I'm gonna be okay," said Metcalf. "I'll be ready."

Pittsburgh, the AFC Central winner, takes on AFC Eastern Champion Baltimore in Saturday's other opening round game while on Sunday, Minnesota, the NFC Central winner, faces wild card choice Dallas and Oakland, the AFC West champion, takes on Cincinnati, also a wild card club.

Minnesota worked all week in Tulsa, Okla., to avoid the severe weather at home. Viking Coach Bud Grant said veteran linebacker Roy Winston, out a month with an injured shoulder, returned to practice but that secondyear man Fred McNeill would start at left linebacker, with Winston ready Oakland Coach John Madden is worried about two of his wide receivers, Fred Biletnikoff and Mike Siani. Both have had leg problems and both depend a great deal on precise patterns to be effective complementing speedster Cliff Branch.

The Raiders also are down to only four healthy defensive linemen after losing Tony Cline with a knee injury. In Pittsburgh, Steeler Coach Chuck Noll is hoping his two star outside linebackers, Jack Ham and Andy Russell, are 100 per cent against Baltimore. Ham and Russell will bear the brunt of stopping the Colts' Lydell Mitchell, who gained over 1,000 yards rushing and also tied for the AFC lead in receiving with 60 catches. Ham has a groin pull and Russell a slightly sprained knee.

Oddsmakers continue to favor the home teams. Pittsburgh is the biggest favorite. 11 points over the Colts, while in the other games, Los Angeles is seven over St. Louis, Minnesota eight over Dallas and Oakland six over Cincinnati.

DETROIT'S Chris Ford plays tight defense on Chicago's Bob Love in NBA action Friday night. The Pistons shut off Love with 12 points and bounced the Bulls, 101-87.

Detroit socks sluggish Bulls

Center Bob Lanier, sidelined for the last three games with a sore knee, scored 30 points Friday night to give the Detroit Pistons a 101-87 victory over the sluggish Chicago Bulls and prevent Detroit from recording its longest losing streak.

Playing despite a tender ankle and strained knee, Lanier also got 10 rebounds, had four assists and four steals. Curtis Rowe hit 17 points and had a season high of 14 rebounds for the Pistons.

The injury-plagued club had lost nine straight going into the game, equal to the Pistons' worst recorded performance.

Detroit pulled ahead 28-16 in the first quarter, scoring 14 straight points while holding the Bulls scoreless for six minutes. Detroit held a 53-40 advantage at halftime.

Chicago closed to within 10 points several times in the third and

Norman Van Lier had 15 to lead the Bulls. Usually high-scoring forward Bob Love played all but three minutes and was held to 12

Arizona State, Pitt win

Danny Kush, the son of the coach, kicked his third field goal of the game with only 4:50 remaining Friday to give seventh-ranked Arizona State a 17-14 upset win over fifth-ranked Nebraska in the Fiesta Bowl Friday after reserve quarterback Fred Mortensen tied the game with a 10-yard touchdown pass and a two-point conversion.

Fleet Tony Dorsett ran for two touchdowns and riddled the Kansas defense with his fancy footwork for 142 yards to help Pittsburgh win its first bowl game in 39 years, a 33-19 Sun Bowl upset decision over the Jayhawks.

In the Fiesta Bowl, a final Nebraska drive to try to pull out the victory ended on the Devil 22-yard line when Tony Davis caught a pass but fumbled when hit hard by John Harris. Rocky Mataalii, ASU's middle guard, recovered and the Devils ran out the final 68

Dorsett, the greatest running back in Panther history, scored on runs of eight and two yards in the Sun Bowl while bullish fullback Elliott Walker scampered across on trips of 60 and two yards and added 123 ground yards.

Quarterback Robert Haygood, voted the game's most valuable offensive player despite Dorsett's showing, added a fourth quarter touchdown with a seven-yard scoring toss to split end Gordon Jones that gave the Panthers plenty of cushion to withstand a late Jayhawk surge.

49ers fire Dick Nolan

San Francisco 49er Head Coach Dick Nolan, 43, was fired Friday after his National Football League club ended the season with a dismal 5-9 mark.

Lou Spadia, president and general manager of the 49ers, said he relieved Nolan of his duties "with regret."

Nolan just completed his eighth season with San Francisco and under his reign the 49ers amassed a 54-53-5 regular season record. In the last three seasons the 49ers' record has been 16-26.

Nolan played eight seasons as a defensive back with the New York Giants and one for the Chicago Cards before becoming an assistant coach with the Dallas Cowboys. He came here from Dal-

Spadia said he has "a number of candidates" in mind to become Nolan's successor and he would name the new coach "as soon as practically possible." Nolan became the second NFL coach to be fired since the regular season ended last week. Mike McCormick was fired Monday by the Philadelphia Eagles.

Top ranked Indiana, playing its starters less than half the game Friday, breezed past outclassed Columbia, 106-63, in the first round of the Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden.

In the opener, Manhattan held St. Bonaventure to only one basket in the last eight minutes to overcome a 12-point second half deficit and pull out a 67-65 victory. Manhattan and Indiana meet Saturday.

Six Hoosiers scored in double figures in a contest which was never close. Indiana held Columbia scoreless for the first five minutes of the game in building a 14-0 lead. It only got worse, with Indiana leading 56-27 at halftime.

The Hoosiers' 6-11 center Kent Benson led all scorers with 15 points. Indiana's other four starters each scored in double figures.

Tom Abernethy was next with 14 points, All-America forward Scott May had 12, Bob Wilkerson had 11 and Quinn Buckner 10. Reserve Bob Bender finished with 12 points as Indiana ran its season's record to 7-0.

Texas, Colorado collide

The healthy Colorado Buffaloes play the Texas Longhorns Saturday afternoon in the 17th annual Astro-Bluebonnet football game which likely will hinge on a gimpy knee.

Marty Akins - or rather his knee - has oddsmakers nervous, Texas offensive players uncertain and Colorado defenders mixed up as they prepared to try and stop two different attacks.

Should the sell-out Astrodome crowd of more than 50,000 persons see freshman quarterback Ted Constanzo take the first Longhorn snap following the kickoff, it can expect an aerial game to spice the Longhorns' tough inside running of fullback Earl Campbell.

If Akins' damaged knee does hold up — as coach Darrell Royal now says it might - Colorado will see a different type throwing game, the option pitchout.

Maine West, led by Bill Fininis' 23 points, earned a first-game victory, 78-69, over Glenbard North in the York holiday tourney Friday.

Fininis, with only four points at halftime, came through with 19 in the second half as the Warriors pulled away from the Panthers.

The game was close until the end of the third quarter. Earlier, the score had been tied six times, the last of which was at 4:07 in the third quarter, 44-44. With only two minutes left in the quarter the Panthers were still only four points behind.

Going into the last quarter, however, the Warriors had a nine-point lead which they controlled for the final eight minutes of the game.

The Panthers got the lead down to four points with 2:37 left to play but that was as close as they could get.

"We weren't playing well for awhile but in the second half we started to move the ball better," said Gaston Freeman, Warrior coach.

Bob Zuccarini scored 15 points for the Warriors followed by Bud Doroskin and Bob Anderson with 11 apiece. Gary Giesow led the Panthers with 23 and Matt Arens had 19.

LIONS CAGED, 68-62

St. Viator coach Ron Creiger got a look at the type of basketball he feels his team is capable of playing in the opening game of the York holiday tournament Friday morning.

But he also had to suffer through frustrating occasions when his team played poorly, and these moments led the Lions to a 68-62 opening game defeat against Wheaton Central.

The game started at 8:45 and the early starting time may have been one reason the Lions fell behind 20-10 at the close of the first quarter, but it wasn't used as an excuse.

"We just didn't come to play," Creiger said. "It doesn't matter what time we play. We just have to want to play. We can win, but we have to be smart and not make turnovers." The Lions, now 3-8 over-all, fought back and tied the game 43-43 at 2:18 in the third quarter. They were losing 32-20 with three minutes left in the first half. Viator stayed close to Wheaton Central through most of the final quarter. Paul Wiloff's two free throws with 3:25 left to play put the Lions only two points behind, 59-57. After some missed shots and violations, the Lions were down 68-59 and didn't have enough time to come back with only 39 seconds left on the clock. One statistic that added to Creiger's frustration was rebounding. The Lions, with an obvious size advantage, were out-rebounded 27-19 by Wheaton Central, a team with the tallest player standing just two inches over six feet. Glenn Girard led the Lions with 19 points, Wiloff had 18, and Ralph Casciaro and Steve Nataro each collected 10. Wheaton Central's Tracy Scott scored 27 points. The Lions play their second game of the double-elimination tourney with another 8:45 a.m. starting time.

HOFFMAN 'CROWNED' 77-63

Shooting 62 per cent for the game, the Crown Vikings defeated the Hoffman Estates Hawks 77-63 at the Grayslake tourney.

After jumping out to a 20-8 lead, the Hawks of Coach Jerry Segebrecht found their zone defense ineffective. "They just killed up from the outside," said Segebrecht. "And in the third quarter their press gave us trouble.

The Hawks lost their momentum when the Vikings forced them into a running game. Hoffman shot 48 per cent — way above its season average from the field — but "we didn't get 'em when we needed them.'

Ron Warring paced the Hawk attack with 15 points. He was followed by Jeff Curtin's 12, Gene Foster's 11 and Joe Gajewski's 11. Warring was also the top rebounder with 10.

Segebrecht praised the floor play of Gajewski, but called his team's overall showing "very inconsistent."

Hoffman will try to advance in the consolation bracket when it plays Round Lake tonight at 7:00.

FALCONS AMBUSHED

Forest View got into a track meet with host DeKalb in the latter's 48th annual holiday tournament Friday night, but the Falcons tripped over the first hurdle and stumbled, 74-39.

Despite playing DeKalb even during the opening minutes of the contest Forest View slipped behind, 18-10 after one period and left the floor at intermission trailing by 19.

Unable to generate a consistent offense, the Falcons were both out-rebounded and out-shot from the field, permitting several DeKalb fast-break To make matters worse, Forest View went scoreless during the first five minutes of the final quarter as the Barbs poured on the coals. Nate Adams led Forest View in scoring with 12 points and Jim O'Rourke added 11. The Falcons play

Olympic ticket sales will stop in states on Dec. 31

Sale of tickets in the United States for the 1976 Summer Olympics in Montreal will be terminated Dec. 31, according to officials of the Canadian Olympic Organizing Committee.

In the following sports, tickets are still available: Athletics (track and field), archery, canoeing, equestrian (horsemanship), fencing, football (soccer), hockey (field), modern pentathlon, judo, rowing, shooting and yachting.

Tickets also are available for many events in boxing, handball, cycling, volleyball, weightlifting, wrestling, basketball and water polo. Tickets are not available for the opening and closing ceremonies and gymnastics.

"In the United States, as well as all other countries, the last two weeks of December will be the final ticket sale period," according to Patrick A. De-Biase, director of Olympic ticket sales for Montgomery Ward, officially distributing agent for the country. "After Dec. 31 all remaining tickets allocated to the United States will be returned to the Canadian Olympic Organizing Committee in Montreal," he said.

"There still are many excellent tickets remaining and there is no restriction on number of tickets per order during these final weeks," De-Biase explained.

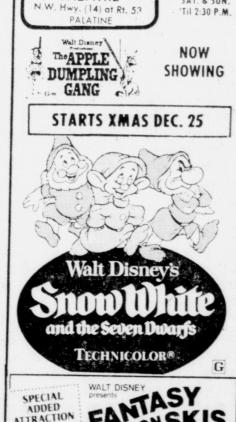

DeBiase also reported that the Olympic Lodging Bureau on December 7 assured Montgomery Ward that all ticket-holders who request lodgings will be offered accommodations. Those whose requests predate Dec. 1 may expect to receive lodging offerings during January; others will receive their lodging offers later. Now that the Canadian postal strike is con-

Dwindling pheasant population deserves attention

Where have all the pheasants gone? I wish I could find one to ask. The last ringneck I've seen was on the front of a Christmas card received in late No-

Hunting buddy Ken Arneson and I got plenty of fresh air and exercise during a six-hour hike earlier in the week to confirm what we both hated to admit — Illinois pheasant hunting is in sad shape.

It wasn't a first-impression judgment. Ken is in the field at least once a week and I have been out nine times during the season that opened campaign. Nov. 8 and concludes Wednesday.

We selected the prime roosting and feeding territory of Grundy county to attempt to disprove our original appraisal that ringneck populations are continuing to slide.

Prior to the season opener, surveys son is always the most productive.

indicated that pheasants would be up 60 per cent from 1974's disasterous

The encouraging data was supported by many hunters who bagged their reduced two-bird limit by midmorning of the opener and reported seeing numerous hens.

But the first day of any hunting sea-

The birds have been unmolested for over 10 months and the feed is abun-

By decreasing the length of the pheasant season by 15 days in 1975 and lowering the bag limit from three birds to two, it was thought that the populations would rise to the prolific hunting era of the 1960s.

I don't think hunters will ever see, let alone enjoy, that type of shooting again unless some drastic and probably unpopular measures are taken.

You can plead with the farmers who plow their fields into a black, desolate, grainless desert. But their pimary concern is to make a living and they can't be blamed for not harvesting their crops in conjunction with the upland game season.

There are still fields with knee-high corn in some areas. You'd think that hunters would benefit from these "isolated" locations since it would force the pheasant populations to take up residence and limit the bird's widespread habitat.

It hasn't. Ken and I hunted a cornfield strip that was surrounded by plowed fields. There was an abundance of corn cobs on the ground, but not a kernel to be found.

Even with Ken's two hard-working Brittany Spaniels on the prowl, the only action was a covey of quail spooked far outside of shooting range.

The hunters blame the farmers, some of whom had plowed up to an inch of the Illinois river banks and to within 10 feet of the front door.

The farmers blame the wet springs of two and three years ago that washed out the season's hatch and literally drowned the Illinois ringneck

Others cite extremely harsh winters when pheasant tail feathers were frozen to the ground and heavy snows buried the feed, inducing starvation and eventual death.

Pen-raised birds don't appear to be the answer. They become too dependent upon feeders. Statistics have shown that only about five per cent of pen-raised pheasants survive once they are released. Apparently the birds just become too weary searching for food and are easy targets for predators.

At the risk of drawing the wrath of all pheasant hunters, I propose that the ringneck be protected in Illinois for one year to see if populations reach the substantial numbers of the Private clubs and game farms who purchase their birds, could still operate to provide an outlet for the diehard pheasant hunter.

By law, the clubs are only permitted to harvest 80 per cent of the birds they release. That other 20 would help stock Illinois fields.

In 1974, it was estimated that 394,000 pheasant were taken by hunters during what was deemed the worst season in the state's history.

Knowing that those ringnecks might still be here after a year of no shooting, in addition to a new hatch, may be the right step to enriching the entire population.

For years pheasant hunters have been forced to rely on unpredictable winter and spring weather for determining the success or failure of the upcoming ringneck season.

Hunting is a means of controlling wildlife population. Let's not "control" the pheasant into extinction.

New and used gun prices slated for sharp upswing

by VIC WATIA

Hunters and target shooters with itchy fingers for new firearms to add to their collections should be warned that the prices are climbing again in

One only has to flip through the new gun catalogs for the news, wander among the booths at a local gun show or talk to a gun dealer.

In many instances, suggested gun prices for 1976 represent an increase of 10 per cent or less, especially for moderately priced guns such as .22 caliber rifles. However, increases of more than 20 per cent also are shown, especially on some popular firearms, such as over-and-under shotguns.

A visit to a local gun show will reveal that not only are new guns increasing in price, but used firearms are bringing premium prices - in some instances more than the new models are selling for.

Some consumers are blaming the increasing prices of guns, especially premium prices on used pistols and ban handguns and for tighter gun con-

Obviouslyp it has had some effect on the used gun market and consumer

But used shotguns are another matter. The attitude that "they don't make things like they used to" is reflected in the prices of quality smoothbores. For instance, I recently visited a show in Illinois where dealers from several parts of the country were displaying their wares.

"How much are you asking for that used Winchester Model 12 trap gun?" I asked one of the dealers.

"I've got three," he said, looking me over similar to a used car salesman. "The one on the top of the rack is a Model 12 with pigeon grade wood not a pigeon grade, just pigeon grade wood. Only $700 for that beauty. The next is a Black Diamond, and not too many were made. Only $625 for it. The third used Model 12 you can have

Now, according to suggested prices for 1976, a new Model 12 for trap shooting with a Monte Carlo stock revolvers, to continuing campaigns to should list for about $470. Last year, the same gun listed for about $435.

But, some shooters believe that when Winchester first revived the Model 12, it wasn't as good as the earlier models. This, of course, is a matter of opinion. I've talked to Winchester spokesmen who said the new Model 12 is as good as it ever was, and shooters who agree.

However, the more popular the gun, the more difficult it is to find on the used market and those available command higher prices.

For instance, a Parker double with modern steel barrels, depending on grade and condition, can sell for upwards of $1,000.

The continuing popularity of overand-under shotguns also is reflected in suggested new price lists. For example, the field model Browning Citori was supposed to sell in 1975 for about $325. In 1976, that suggested price jumps to about $395.

The novice who is interested in purchasing a used gun, should take a few precautionary steps.

First, he should find an experienced friend who knows about guns to take shopping with him. Often, the friend can point out faults in the firearm the novice may overlook in his excitement

Regardless of how good a used gun

may look, it is best if the purchaser can test fire it before he buys. This is not always possible, especially if the firearm is purchased at a gun show. But, often when buying from a local dealer, the gun can be test fired. One of the most important points is to know if the gun fits the purchaser. Of course, a gunsmith can alter a gun to make it fit, but that's an added expense that must be taken into consid-

The novice who purchases a new gun has the advantage of a warranty, and he can return the firearm if something goes wrong during the warranty period. Also, a local dealer can insure a new gun will fit properly before money exchanges hands.

by LINDA PUNCH

Your local library may seem to have a limited collection, but more than 12 million volumes are just a phone call away through the North Suburban Library System (NSLS).

In the past 10 years, libraries in the Northwest suburbs have gained access to the collections of 35 public libraries and 102 academic, private and school libraries through membership in NSLS. NSLS headquarters are at 2100 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

NSLS Director Robert McClarren said the system is "one of the richest library areas in the country."

"A STUDY OF the system five years ago indicated we had 51 per cent of all books published in the English language. Now it's closer to 65 per cent," he said.

McClarren said NSLS member libraries have more than 300,000 titles. "We may in total be richer in titles than the Chicago Public Library," he

In addition to 35 public libraries in the North suburban area, NSLS members have access to the Illinois State Library, the University of Illinois Library, the John Crear science and technical library, the Northwestern University Library and the University of Chicago Library.

McClarren said NSLS also has library loan agreements with many other libraries in the state and nation. "Our fill percentage on requests is find a title," he said.

NSLS HAS a central catalog listing every book purchased by member libraries since 1968. The system also has the complete catalog of the Illinois State Library and the University Reciprocal borrowing program: Many libraries in the system allow registered borrowers from neighboring libraries to check out materials directly from their library.

"This increase is not only a result of better diagnosis and better reporting. It is a true increase," said Dr. Oscar Crofford of the Vanderbilt School of Medicine, Nashville, Tenn., commission chairman.

THE COMMISSION, established in 1974 to organize the most thorough evaluation of diabetes in this country to date, put the number of diabetics in the U.S. today at 10 million and the economic cost of the disease at $5.3 billion annually.

"Between 1965 and 1973 the prevalence of diabetes increased by more than 50 per cent in the United States," the commission report states. "Diabetes now affects 5 per cent of the popu-

There is better than one chance in five that the average American born today will develop diabetes unless a method of prevention is found, the commission found.

DIABETES IS a disease in which a person's body is either unable to make insulin — a hormone necessary to the body's use of sugar — or unable to utilize the insulin present in the body. The disease causes a build-up of sugar in the blood.

Crofford said an inheritance factor may explain the increase in the incidence of diabetes in the U.S. Recent work also suggests a virus may trigger juvenile diabetes, while obesity is a major factor in adult cases.

The national commission developed a long-range plan to combat the disease. It calls for an increase in federal funding from $43 million in fiscal 1975 to $126 million in fiscal 1979.

The recommended program includes the formation of a national diabetes advisory board, a basic research program into the causes, cure and prevention of diabetes, research and training centers and an education program.

The viewers love Gagney and Bogey and Groucho Marx

They sit faithfully before the television and watch Bogart pitch the love line to Lauren Bacall and dodge bullets right along with Cagney as he shoots it out with the law.

They're a cult of faithful disciples called vintage film fans. Their deity is the movie classics, their altar the television set.

If you're a film viewer with an appetite for the old days, Chicago television stations will be serving up more entrees to usher in 1976.

Station programmers are a little reluctant as yet to tip their hand on exactly what they'll be showing and when; they are worried about counter-programming by other stations. But there will be plenty of old-time classics to suit the vintage film crowd.

Jack Jacobsen, vice president and manager of programming for WGN television, says a triple header is scheduled for New Year's Eve with Marx Brothers and W. C. Fields films. A Mae West flick is the other WGN also plans a week-long James Cagney fest for mid-January. And although the station officials won't say which ones, they're billing some of Cagney's rarer films for the week.

WLS-TV is putting together a special package for sometime in February for its 3:30 p.m. movie. It will be themed "Gorilla Mind Week," says Jeff McGrath, program manager. The original version of "King Kong" as well as "King Kong Escapes" and by John Maes "Mighty Joe Young" are in the line-up.

WTTW is scoring big with silent film fans. The station recently completed a week of Greta Barbo silents and Dick Bowman, director of broadcasting, says more are on the way.

"We've been broadcasting a number of silent films," Bowman says. "Probably more than before but there appears to be a small, devout type of audience for this type of film.

'There are some real classics we want," he says. "We already have some of them in the vault and we're looking for more." Bowman says he's also negotiating for a package that includes a few flicks "vintage film viewers might like."

But why the revival? Why such a cult-like interest in the crackling classics? Programmers offer a variety of reasons for the interest in parades of double and triple features of vintage films in what Jacobsen calls "thematic programming."

It's not as if a film like "Casablanca" was being shown with any less frequency 10 years ago. But with the onset of the current nostalgia craze, particularly for stars like Humphrey Bogart, a film like "Casablanca" is often double-billed with another of his classics, explains Paul Kelvyn, asst. program manager at WGN.

The biggest WGN vintage seller of all time was a recent showing of "Boys" Town" with Spencer Tracy one Sunday afternoon on the weekly feature, "Family Classics."

"We found it had a rating of 25," Jacobson says, adding it takes 27,000 viewer responses to make one rating point, Jacobson said viewers may have been looking for an alternative to Sunday afternoon football.

Other widely watched oldies out of the WGN library of some 2,000 films have been the Cagneys — "White Heat," "Yan-kee Doodle Dandy," "Angels With Dirty Faces," and the Bogarts — "Casablanca,"
"Maltese Falcon" and "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre."

"Bad Day at Black Rock," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Little Ceasar" have also attracted huge audiences as do the Marx Brothers, particularly with "A Night at the Opera."

"The old movies are popular because in those days they were concerned with plot rather than sensationalism," Jacobsen says: "They didn't depend on an earthquake or a catastrophe. It's like a book when you're waiting for that one explosive climax."

McGrath says viewers may be turning to the older film fare to escape what he called the "editorials" of modern-day movies for basic entertainment value.

"They see craftsmanship, they see acting, they see staging that you don't get in the modern genre of film," he says. "The older films were designed to entertain."

Bowman attributes the interest to a new appreciation, especially among young people, of film as an art form with film lovers studying the movies and production techniques the same way one would examine 18th century painting styles.

"In colleges, they're recruiting big-time film critics to teach film appreciation courses and it seems to be a whole burgeoning movement of people beginning in a sense to take film seriously," he says. "The old crackiers are here to stay."

Harry, who did you say played

The cast of "The Maltese Falcon:" Humphrey Bogart, Peter Lorre, Mary Astor and Sidney Greenstreet.

Harry Trigg, program manager at WGN Television, and his wife Yolanda are the compleat film buffs.

And the way Trigg puts it, it only stood to reason that a wealth of material from years of his voracious interest in film buffing and hours of trivia games with fellow buffs should be pooled into a book.

Well it happened, and the Trigg's joint enterprise has produced "The Compleat Motion Picture Quiz Book," $4.95 Doubleday and Co., Garden City, N.Y., 1975.

Trigg, who's been in television programming for almost 25 years, says he was motivated to write the book, a collection of 260 quizzes, because he felt there were no good quiz books out that appealed to both the casual movie watcher and the hard-core buffs.

"There were two books on the market that I didn't think were good and I thought I could do better," he says.

With Yolanda, a former actress, Trigg spent months putting the quizzes together. A lot of the answers came off the tops of their heads and from Trigg's extensive library on film fare.

The rest was a dogged campaign of research with meticulous attention to detail, watching parts of films to make sure of such things as who played who.

Once, following a debate with his editor over the wording of "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre," Trigg watched the film again to find the word "the" appeared twice, not once in the title of the 1948 Bogart classic.

Film buffs are strange people who cry foul over factual errors, even something as small as a word missing from a title,

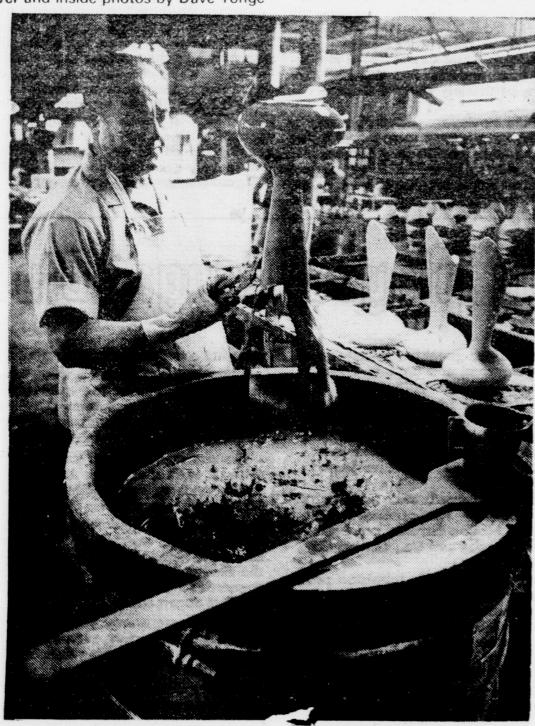

"If they detect a factual error, they write in and raise hell so if you're going

Electric parts are installed into lamps at Haeger's plant in East Dundee.

Pottery making

by Anne Slavicek

More than 100 years ago David Haeger founded a brickyard in East Dundee to make use of the natural clays of the area.

Today the clay is all gone but the former brickyard has become a massive factory for producing lamps, vases, bowls and other pottery.

Clay from Tennessee, Kentucky and Georgia is shipped to Dundee for Haeger Potteries Inc. artisans to form into an endless variety of candlesticks, ash trays, flower pots and candy dishes. It is no simple task. Each piece takes 10 to 13 days to complete and most go through a total of 75 to 100 different processes before they are ready to be sold.

In addition to a store which sells seconds of Haeger creations at 25 to 35 per cent off retail prices, the factory offers a chance to learn more about the art of pottery making. There are weekday tours of Haeger's production process and on Saturdays a seventh generation master potter conducts classes for the do-it-yourselfer.

The tour alone is worth the trip to East Dundee. It's amazing to watch the gray liquid clay take shape as a lamp, a liquor decanter or a Victorian pitcher. You've never appreciated the lamps in your living room until you've seen the complicated process used to make them.

The hand-throwing demonstrations and classes taught by master potter Sebastiano Maglio are also something unique Haeger potteries has to offer its visitors.

Haeger's operation is one of the main industries in East and West Dundee and most of the 350 employes live in the two villages. There's a certain air of small town about the place. One room where Haeger items are displayed is also a trophy room for the local high school marching band.

On permanent display in the firm's museum is a history of Haeger's operations since the company was founded in 1871. There are some interesting examples of old equipment used to make pottery as well as some unique pieces made by Haeger craftsmen over the years.

On the tour visitors can see how each item produced in the factory begins with an artist's sketch. From the sketch a "mother mold" is made and then used for mass production.

There are two separate processes involved. Solid clay is used on a press which applies 50 to 60 tons of pressure to make flat items like bowls. Lamps and vases are made by pouring liquid clay into a mold, allowing it to sit for 35 to 45 minutes and then slowly pouring out the excess.

The pottery is then dried, hand finished to remove rough edges, fired in 180-foot-long kilns and glazed. Some of the more complicated items like planters that look like elephants are made from

"In United States, when you are young, your parents take care of you. You don't worry about money. You go to school until you're 18 years old.

From Sebastiano Maglio's hands comes great art.

His own pottery wheel, a tool which has undergone virtually no modification for thousands of years, seems to be making a comeback. The young people seem inter-

Sebastiano's travels take him nationwide for Haeger. He will appear March 20-28 at the Chicago Flower and Garden Show in McCormick Place. Many television appearances have spiced his schedule.

Sebastiano enjoys television. "Always they say when I'm in town to come back again," he said.

"One time, the girl was supposed to be asking me questions. But she enjoyed watching me so much, she didn't say anything," Sebastiano said. "So I started talking in my poor English.'

He thinks we must depend upon the high schools and universities to keep art strong. Last month, Sebastiano gave a special demonstration at the University of Illinois in Champaign.

"They have a really beautiful art department there in big college," Sebastiano said. "A professor there, a gentleman and good artist, he saw me work the wheel and really appreciated it.

"So I go to the school and make a demonstration. Now, I'll go to Louisiana, someplace near New Orleans. There will be professors from all over the country for a Sebastiano thrives on these appearances. They are his own little concerts.

"The professor says he's never seen anyone work the wheel the way I do and I should come show them," Sebastiano said proudly. "There will be about 1,500 professors."

Man has been making pottery ever since he found the need to store food. It is an

"We talk about the wheel, it's basically the same, just different design," Sebastiano said. "The tools are regular tools, nothing special. Years ago, we had the kick wheel, today a motor wheel.

"What's important, is your hands."

Sebastiano's clay flows, like water trickling in a quiet brook. It does not make any sudden movements. There are no unexpected turns. He commands its every mo-

Maglio's been at the wheel for more than 25 years

Always, the proportions seem perfect, because they are, as the piece unfolds within his hands. There is a sense of ease. But more than three decades of effort have gone into creating that superb ability.

The simplicity of Sebastiano's tools is unique. He uses a caliper for occasional measurements and a small wire for cutting the pottery away from his potter's plate.

There are small sticks for scraping and a series of smoothing plates, metal discs no larger than index cards. One of these has hacksaw-type teeth for special designs.

And they remain simple tools until placed in the hands of an amateur. Then it becomes a mystery.

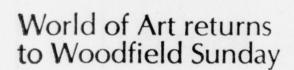

Sebastiano came to America at the urging of this sister, Rosalina, who convinced him there was a need for his enormous talent here.

He has never regretted that move. Sebastiano says America is a good place to live and work. His brother, Tony, is a carpenter here and another brother, Santo, works at Haeger manning the gigantic

His father is nearly 80 years old and still lives in Sicily. But Gaetano Maglio does not work the wheel any longer. Sebastiano's grandfather died just 10 years ago when he was 94.

It seems there will be an eighth generation to the Maglio tradition. Sebastiano's two sons, 13-year-old Tommy and 10-year-old Angelo, have begun working the wheel, as their father did many years ago in Italy.

Sebastiano is just 42 years old. "I stay all my life on the wheel," he said. "I do it now more than 25 years and still I like it.

New aerogramme issue

To meet increased international postage rates, which become effective Jan. 3, the U.S. Postal Service will issue a 22-cent aerogramme at Tempe, Arizona on Jan. 16.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations should send their requests to "Aerogramme, Postmaster, Tempe, AZ 85281" enclosing the proper remittance (22-cents) plus a self-addressed peelable label or a self-addressed envelope for their return. Orders will be accepted until Jan. 30.

Stamp notes

by Bernadine M. Rechner

Australia will mark 75 years of nationhood with the release Jan. 5 of an 18-cent commemorative stamp.

Official first day covers, franked with the new stamp, will be available at 30-cents each or collectors may submit their own covers to "Officer-in-Charge, Philatelic Bureau, 12th floor, 374 Bourke Street, Melbourne, Victoria, Australia 3000." Your remittance should be by international bank draft to cover the cost (in Australian funds) of the stamps to be affixed.

The U.S. Citizens Stamp Avisory Committee recommends stamp subjects based upon national importance, social impact or historic contribution. Annually, more than 4,000 ideas are received of which only 15 or 16 will result in stamp issues. Some of the subjects that didn't make it are those honoring:

- the Devil, suggested for release at Hell, Michigan;

- Whooda Tom, world champion hog caller;

- the 2000th swimming pool to be built in Palm Springs, California;

- the Beatles;

- the hamburger;

- the pickle;

- the pretzel, with beef-flavored gum on the back;

the first daylight bank robbery;

- Lassie;

- the little red schoolhouse;

Beachcombers;

- Tuffy, the porpoise;

- the FBI's ten most wanted individuals (each a single adhesive);

- Democratic presidents (Republican presidents, it was suggested, nould be depicted only on "postage due stamps")

Perhaps we should breathe a sigh of relief that stamp subjects are as intelligent as they (usually) are. Or, perhaps we should suggest that the Postal Service issue a stamp honoring all those people who propose unusual stamp subjects.

New Sky Show opens Jan. 6

"Splendors of the Milky Way," the new Sky Show at the Adler Planetarium in Chicago, will begin Jan. 6 and continue through March 31.

The two-part Sky Show will begin in the Universe Theater with illustrations of the beliefs held by ancient civilization regarding the Milky Way. The agricultural Egyptians decided the milky band was a bundle dust. In the Great Lakes region, Indians ted. pictured it as a mud creek stirred by a turtle swimming across the sky.

"Spendors of the Milky Way" will recount the many attempts by astronomers to correctly locate the position of our solar system in the Milky Way. Visuals will illustrate how astronomers learned to measure the distance of stars.

In the Sky Theater, the "big bang" theory of the origin of the universe and formation of our galaxy, the Milky Way, will be discussed and shown on the dome.

Larger and smaller stars in the Milky Way will be explored. Among them will be Betelgeuse which is 600 times larger than the sun and Sirius and its companion star, only 1/50th the size of the sun.

Vellum to video in one big deal

HOLLYWOOD - Read any good TV shows lately?

That's not an idle question. More and more, TV movies, and even series, are based on books. In television's early days, the baby medium couldn't compete with movies in purchasing books, but now that's all changed.

It used to be that if an author wanted to sell his book to Hollywood, it was a movie or nothing. Today, many books are sold to TV and that's probably become a better market for book sales than features.

The TV market seems to go for two different types of books, books which the feature area seldom touches. The first is non-fiction. The second is long novels, too big to be turned into an ordinary-sized movie.

The non-fiction area is typified by the recent "Fear On Trial," the story of John Henry Faulk's trouble with blacklisting. There was no way Hollywood's feature film makers would touch that. It was too small, too intimate, perhaps too touchy, certainly not commercial enough for the big screen. But it made an effective two-hour TV movie.

Similarly, NBC's recent movie, "The UFO Incident," was the kind of project the feature film area wouldn't touch with a ten-foot screen. James Earl Jones, who starred in it, learned that the hard way.

Jones read it when it first came out, nearly a decade ago and liked it. He saw it then as a feature film vehicle for himself and tried in vain to get it made. But he eventually interested Universal and NBC in making it for TV.

And there are other non-fiction books headed for the home screen, books like Vincent Bugliosi's "Helter Skelter," the story of the Manson mob's murders; "Johnny, We Hardly Knew Ye," a look at John F. Kennedy by two men who knew him intimately; and Jim Bishop's study of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, "F.D.R."

Rarer even are the movies based on novels. Only the small novel which the big screen feels is beneath it - "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman" is a good example of that sort — and the big novel which is too big for movie theaters interest TV producers.

That type of project began when Universal made a six-hour movie, shown in two three-hour segments, out of Fletcher Knebel's "Vanished" three or four years

The property had been owned by several feature film studios, but they could find no way of compressing the vast scope of the book into the proper length. The TV industry found, with "Vanished," that it could handle long projects by playing them over several nights.

That trend continued with Leon Uris' best-seller, "QB VII," which again was shown over several nights.

Some feel, however, that the length is not really necessary, that TV merely extends it when they pay a large amount for a book to make the whole deal economically sound.

"If you pay a lot," says Lee Rich, whose Lorimar Productions is big in the books-to-TV area, "there is a tendency to over-extend it to make it pay off. That was true, I think, of 'QB VII' - that could have been easily made in a two-hour form."

Still, the trend to long movies-from-books is continuing. This spring, ABC will air Irwin Shaw's 1970 best-seller, "Rich Man, Poor Man" in a whopping 12-hour version. It has not yet been decided whether to air it in six two-hour chunks or four three-hour chunks.

ABC acquired that project, says executive producer Harve Bennett, back in '71. It's taken that long to figure out how to do

"Making TV movies out of novels is rare," Bennett says. "The problem is one of budget. Compared to a feature film, a TV movie budget is very small. There's no way we can compete with the features for a best-seller like 'The Exorcist' or 'Jaws.'"

It's the story of the first black president. That theme turned movie makers off and the book languished on the agent's shelf for years. Then it was bought for TV - and the film turned out so well it was, ultimately, released first as a feature.

Another classic story is that of Joseph Wambaugh's "The Blue Knight." This was a true best-seller and would ordinarily have sold to movies for a whopping sum. But, for some reason, it found no buyer, so Lee Rich and Lorimar bought it, for a six-figure sum. It was made into a TV movie with William Holden and now has become a series with George Kennedy.

Cecely Tyson as "Miss Jane Pittman"

It's still a moot point whether ratings are affected by a property having been a best-seller.

"I don't know if it does affect ratings," says Lee Rich. "When you think about it, a best-seller means maybe 60,000 copies have been sold. That's a pin-drop measured against the total TV audience."

Still, Lorimar has acquired a best-seller - "Sybil" - for TV. And Rich says its sales should help its ratings, because this one was on the best-seller list for six months and has subsequently sold millions of paperbacks.

Of course, the decline in the number of movies made has given TV an edge in the marketplace for books. Today, many agents take their properties directly to TV and by-pass movies entirely. There has not yet been a bidding war between movies and TV for a book, although that could happen.

Dinah's the same on camera and off

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The ultimate in fame is identity by the masses of a celebrity by a single name.

It is a signal honor bestowed on only a few.

Today it is television stars who, curiously, are more intimately called by a single first name rather than surnames. They are not, however, as commonplace as in the old days.

Among the handful are Lucy and Bing. But most of all there is Dinah.

No one ever asks Dinah who?

Dinah Shore is in her second year with her own daily 90-minute CBS-TV talk show, having played hostess to more than a thousand guests.

A consummate lady who never fails to put her guests at ease, Dinah attracts the biggest names in show business.

"The people who come on my show are confident they aren't going to be embarrassed or put down," Dinah explained.

"My staff interviews everyone extensively. They go over what guests want to talk about and what is taboo. If it's an author, I make sure to read his book so I'll know what I'm talking about.

"The important thing about being a hostess is to keep the conversational ball in the air. And on our show we don't move from guest to guest. Everybody continues to be part of the conversation."

Celebrities vary from performers to scientists, educators, politicians, sports figures, medical men and people in the news.

She gets many a salty visitor to the show, but the one guest who was bleeped most often was

"I have to watch the women more closely than I do the men for double entendres and naughty language," Dinah said, laughing. "And I try to advise them to wear pants or long skirts rather than short skirts which are more restricting."

DINAH SHORE

Wardrobe is a big item with Dinah. Women viewers check her out thoroughly on every show. She is unquestionably the best dressed star on the

"The hardest thing is trying to wear something different every day," she said. "I try combinations of outfits and from time to time I forget what I've worn and repeat an ensemble - and I hear about

"But the ladies are more critical of my hairdo than anything else. Most of them want to know why I look as if I'd done my hair in a wind tunnel."

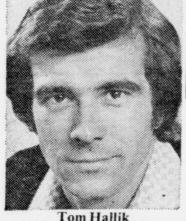

Dinah is precisely the same woman on and off the air. She is relaxed, cheerful and interested in everything and everyone around her.

"I couldn't assume a different personality on camera," she said. "I wouldn't know how. The big secret is not to impose my feelings about politics or religion on other people.

"I don't mind giving a general impression of my philosophy of life, like being for the underdog and that sort of thing. But viewers want to hear what my guests have to say - and so do I."

Dinah doesn't discuss personal matters with her guests unless they ask specifically to tackle delicate

"I have yet to lose my temper on the show," she said. "I only get angry when one guest hurts another. I'm powerless to prevent that sort of thing from happening, but I try."

Tom Hallik

I would like to know about Tom Hallik, who is on the soap opera "The Young and the Restless."

Tom was born and raised in Buffalo, N.Y. After graduating from Florida Southern College, he returned to Buffalo and worked as a television newsman and weath-Florida and became a local 10:00(44)THIS IS THE NFL television star, hosting "The

A Hollywood director saw him in a local stage play and urged Tom to go to Hollywood. He won a regular role on the "Search" series and he has also appeared on many TV commercials. You can write to Tom, who plays Brad Eliot on the CBS daytime Karg Agency, 328 S. Beverly Dr., Suite E, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212.

I would like you to seitle an argument. Some of my friends say Henry Winkler is dead and that he died in an automobile accident. C.B.

According to ABC, "Contrary to a rumor that is sweeping the country, Henry Winkler, star of "Happy Days" is ALIVE and well.'

Is it true that Susan Seaforth and Bill Hayes, of NBC's "Days of Our Lives," are married in real life? Where could I reach them?

Yup. Bill Hayes (Doug drama, in care of Michael Williams) married cast member Susan Seaforth (Julie Banning Anderson) in October, 1974. Both husband and wife received Emmy nominations this year for Best Actor and Actress in a daytime series.

Shelby Lyman on chess

There has been no greater child prodigy of chess than Sammy Reshevsky, who, like Capablanca, learned the game at four years of age by watching his father play.

When he was nine years old (1920), he embarked on a world tour, in which he took on and beat dozens of adults simultaneously.

How ironic that the same Reshevsky should find himself in Moscow at age 45, again playing an exhibition, but now against opponents age 8-12, members of the Young Pioneers.

And Reshevsky barely emerged with a slight plus score! (Normally grandmasters win 90% and more of such games.)

We are told that Reshevsky would have fared much worse, but for his determined ability to prolong the exhibition until six in the morning. His victories came "mainly at the expense of the Pioneers, who had been ordered home.'

Hint and explanation for Diagram 1: Black has a surprise move if white captures the wrong pawn. Remember that (often) rook pawns do not win.

Previously, with a touch of chauvinism, we celebrated the 2nd place finish of U.S.A.'s Larry Christianson in the XLV World Junior Championship, held in Tjentishte, Yugoslavia.

But what about the first place player, Valery Chekhov, of the U.S.S.R.? Another participant, Jonathan Mestel of England, who finished third, one-half point behind Christianson (who trailed Chekhov by the same margin) had the following to say about Valery:

"His victory was deserved, he played steady throughout . . . Valery was well prepared for the tournament and his second, Anatole Bishovski, was exceedingly dedicated."

Christianson, in fact, missed the title by a hair. In his game with Chekhov, he had achieved the following 'winning' position at move 40, in Diagram 2, but played imprecisely and only drew.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

The reverse of the trump promotion play may well be called the trump demotion play. The man perpetrating this crime against the defenders tries to get one of them to waste an apparently valueless low trump on an unnecessary ruff.

South wins the heart lead with his queen. The five spades is a cinch, but South wants to make one more trick. An overtrick means 30 points in rubber bridge; it may mean a top score in duplicate play.

At trick two South crosses to dummy's ace of diamonds, leads the ace of hearts, discards a low club and continues with the king of hearts.

East doesn't think his deuce of trumps is worth anything so he uses it to ruff that king. South overrufts, leads a trump, bumps the ace and king together and makes six for a top score.

Which pawn should white take? Solution below

CHRISTIANSEN WHITE

White has an edge! The World Jr. Championship in balance

Christianson	Chekkov
(white)	(black)
10. Q-R6	K-B2
11. P-N5?	RxP

3. P-K4	R-B8
4. Q-Q8?	PxP

R-B5ch

57. K-Q6	R-KR4
58. P-K5	R-K1
59. QB6ch	K-N1
60. K-Q7	R-B1

65. P-K6ch	K-N2
66. P-K7	RxP
67. P-K8(Q)	R-B2ch
68. K-K6	Drawn

Answer to solve it: White must play 1.KxRP to win. If instead 1.KxBP, Black's 1 ... P-R6 gains the draw. For after 2.PxP, the white pawn will have become a non-winning rook pawn.
